Lieutenant Governor Hale K. Darling of Chelsea, who is to be engaged in business at the capitol for several weeks, is making his headquarters at Hotel Barre.

George M. Rand of Pleasant street, city inspector of buildings, will leave Thursday for Rockport, Mass., where he is to be engaged for 10 days or a fortnight in setting up a piece of machinery for Smith, Whitcomb & Cook. After tomorrow all persons desiring building permits should make their applications at the office of the city clerk.

Receipts at the city clerk's office on the 1915 tax account are no larger than at other similar periods in the open season on taxpayers, although attaches at the office are getting ready for the usual rush that always comes a few days before the accounts are due to be transferred to the constable. A majority of the tax accounts already settled are poll taxes. Aug. 10 is fixed as the last day when taxes may be paid without additional costs.

The condition of Anna Corey, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Corey, whose fall from the rocks to the river at the rear of her home on Prospect street last week was probably a very narrow escape from death, continues to improve steadily. Yesterday the child was able to sit up for the first time since the accident. Fear of internal injuries has been entirely dissipated by the little girl's unusual recovery from the more immediate effects of the accident.

Unless the weather slumps into the recalcitrant mood that has marked its attitude on most of the Wednesday nights thus far, the Barre Citizens' band will give a concert in city park tomorrow evening. Five times a downpour has thwarted the plans of the music makers and with the season nearly finished, the band is confronted with a possibility of not being able to complete its schedule of open-air performances. The regular weekly practice was held in the old city building last night.

Motor arrivals at the Hotel Barre last night included the following: John R. Packard, Thomas H. Graff, Mrs. P. H. Graff of Greenville, Pa., Mrs. H. K. Dougherty of Grove City, Pa., Mrs. E. E. Haywood and Miss McLecheron of Sharon, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Evers, Miss Katherine Wilder, J. E. Wilder, J. S. Norris, Hartland Wilder and J. E. Mitchell of Montreal, P. Q.; Judge A. W. Barker, F. S. Barker, Vinton Barker and Billy Barker of Bradenton, Fla.; Mrs. Julia Monahan and E. Monahan of Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. R. E. Dunning, Miss Sara Brown, Miss Marion Jack and F. Burr Weeks of Richmond, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Whitney of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. North and son of Burlington.

One of the youngsters whose confessed guilt in the theft of copper wire from a North Main street peddler was lately prohibited by the judge, fell from grace again and was brought before the magistrate in city court yesterday afternoon. Larceny did not enter into the boy's wrong doing this time, but the charge was charged against him was quite as serious and the authorities decided to try a new tack in directing their course before committing him to the state industrial school at Vergennes. After the judge had delivered a very stern reprimand to the youngster, he was turned over to the guardianship of an older brother, who promised to furnish an outlet for the lad's excessive energy by providing him with some form of light labor.

To-night the board of aldermen is to hold its last meeting of the month and unless the unexpected happens definite action will be taken on two matters of importance that have been engaging the attention of the city fathers for several weeks. With the second reading of a proposed amendment to the city ordinances, which will have the effect of putting a ban on the "out out" in automobiles, that piece of legislation will become effective at once, and the strident whirr of open mufflers will become more and more infrequent within the city limits. A final stand on the negotiations with George J. Goodkowski, the would-be lessee of the Barre opera house, will be taken and there is a strong probability that the aldermen will cut out the lines of communication between Barre and York Beach.

Trainsmen on the Barre branch of the Central Vermont railroad went to Montpelier Junction Sunday to see a record-breaking shipment of horses pass through, en route from Boston to Montreal, whence they are to be shipped to France. Grand Trunk railroad officials gave two trainloads of horses the right of way on its Central Vermont line. There were 1,200 horses in the consignment, not one of which was a black horse. White and gray predominated, although there was a sprinkling of roan and chestnut horses. Sixty-six cars were required and they were divided into two trainloads, one consisting of 34 cars and the other 32. Railroad men say it was one of several trainloads that are due to go over the Central Vermont road within a short time, although it is expected that some of the loads to follow will fall short of Sunday's consignment in the number of horses transported.

"The Young Mrs. Winthrop."

When the Nellie Gill Players come to Barre next Friday, they will present "The Young Mrs. Winthrop." This is the play which gave this company such remarkable popularity, and they played it for four weeks to crowded houses. It is a play with an appeal which goes straight to the heart and rivets the attention, not does it depend on congruous or "house play" for its comedy.—Adv.
